+ Boyd Lighting's first LED fixture, La Reina Pendants, encapsulates the essence of trees. "The semi-transparent effect of the design came from the unique layering of the foliage of trees," designer Federico Otero says. "The pendants' lightweight appearance and shape symbolize a glamorous crown in nature." La Reina, meaning queen in Spanish, creates a dynamic impression with a moiré effect.

As an architect and interior designer, Kadlec also has a multi-faceted skill set that enabled him to come up with small structural changes that did not compromise the developer's plans, yet made a big impact on the way the apartment looked and lived. In the foyer, for example, several closets for storage and mechanicals made the prominent space confusing and choppy rather than welcoming and straightforward, so Kadlec masked the jumble of doors with sleek, hidden panels wrapped in a richly printed silk that also gave the space the grandeur to match its importance. And built-ins throughout the living area were modified subtly and adeptly to meet the homeowner's specific needs.
